

I hope the FCC will not adopt their proposed rule changes enabling major media corporations to stifle competition from small businessess who are more likely to present different views of the news to the public. It is essential in a democracy that all points of view be expressed. We need a broad spectrum of opinion which would be unlikely with the concentration of news sources.

Respecfully, Sybil Lisansky